RYAN'S SKULL

Mrs. Hodge Confronted by the Ghostly Exhibit.

PUTS HAND TO HER EYES

TESTD ONY IN CASE WILL BE FINISHED TONIGHT.

A grinning skull, with a lead-fringed hole in its crown, was a grewsome exhibit that confronted Mrs. Aurora Hodge before the bar of justice yesterday. It was the skull of William X. Syan, the man whom she is accused of having murdered and robbed.

The skull was brought into court in the afternoon in a small paper box. Mrs. Hodge glanced at the box, but little guessed what it centained. Dr. H. N. Mayo was called to the stand and the skull was handed to him by the county aftorney. Mrs. Hodge sat looking down in her lap, but suddenly she looked up. When she saw the skull she gave an almost imperceptible start, her face grew deathly pale and she fulckly turned her gaze out the window.

During the entire time that the doctor was testifying as to the course pursued by the bullet she would not cast her gaze in the direction of the grewsome object. When the doctor had finished, Mr. Westerveit took the skull in his hands and started toward Mr. Loofbourow. The lower jaw being loose made the teeth rattle with a decidedly unpleasant sound. Mrs. Hodge glanced up quickly. She instinctively shrank hack in her chair, her face grew red and her hand flew over her eyes She turned quickly to the window and her attorney motioned Mr. Westerveit to take the skull away. He put it down on the table before the judge. hands and started toward Mr. Loof-bourow. The lower jaw being loose made the teeth rattle with a decidedly unpleasant sound. Mrs. Hodge glanced up quickly. She instinctively shrank back in her chair, her face grew red and her hand flew over her eyes She turned quickly to the window and her attorney motioned Mr. Westervelt to take the skull away. He put it down on the table before the judge.

court five different witnesses were called and identified Mrs. Hodge as the woman seen camping with Ryan in the vicinity of Murray and Winchester's ranch. A. H. Atkinson said he and his wife passed what he supposed was Ryan's camp on the night of July 10 and saw a woman tying a man with a rope. The man he said did not and saw a woman tying a man with a rope. The man, he said, did not seem to be trying to get way and there was no indication of trouble. The rope, he said, was wrapped around the man's arms and body. He could not say that Mrs. Hodge was the woman.

Ryan Died Struggling. Dr. Rausher testified in the afternoon that from the examination he made he was positive that Ryan died struggling to loosen himself from his bonds. He testified that the man's hands had been tied with great strength, as the thongs had cut into the flesh.

Several witnesses were then recalled and testified that when the body of Ryan was found they saw no revolver in the camp.

Members of the South Dakota Press association reached the city yesterday noon from Omaha—twenty-seven of them, including the women belonging to the families, of the editors. The party was headed by Charles F. Allen of the Brookings Press, president, and G. M. Farley, mayor of Madison and secretary of the association.

and her hand flew over her eyes She turned quickly to the window and her attorney motioned Mr. Westervelt to take the skull away. He put it down on the table before the judge.

Strain a Trying One.

While this was happening the crowd of people who thronged the court room watched the accused woman with searching glances. A hush prevailed in the room that would have made a pin drop audible to every one. The strain was a trying one for the prisoner and she was noticed to heave a sigh of relief when the skull was returned to its pasteboard box.

Before and after the presentation of the skull Mrs. Hodge was an entirely different woman. She seemed to take an interest in what was being said and laughed heartily frequently at funny remarks made by witnesses. She seemed to be in the best of sphrits and smiled her peculiar smile at each incident that gave opportunity for an exhibition of mirth.

Just before court opened in the morning a refined looking young girl rushed up to the prisoner and embraced her. Mrs. Hodge greeted the girl with enthusiasm and they chatted together in a lively manner for several minutes. The name of the girl was not divulged but it was learned that she was a schoolmate of the prisoner in Denison, lowa.

NEWS STORM WORKS HAVOC WITH STREET CARS AND PUTS OUT ELECTRIC LIGHTS

The electrical storm that struck the city last evening played havoe with the street car and electric light systems, and in various other ways did considerable damage. In several places in the city large trees were struck by lightning, but as yet no reports have come in of buildings being damaged.

Fifteen cars of the Consolidated Rallway & Power company were disabled and had to be towed to the barn, thus impeding traffic somewhat. Several of the cars were struck by lightning and badly damaged, but nobody was injured. In several cases short circuits resulted and the cars had to be taken to the barn for repair.

The electric lights were out all over the city for nearly a quarter of an hour last night owing to the storm, which burned out fuses in the Ogden power house. The firemen also suffered, several runs being caused by open circuits occasioned by the electricity in the atmosphere.

A large poplar tree on West Temple at boar for lightning and felled.

The accompanying rain was welcomed by everyone.

In front of a Second South street saloon on end of amusement for a crowd during the storm. The wire runs down a pillar in front of the place and after the rain in visiorating shock could be obtained by simply leaning against the support.

A small sized crowd hung around the place during the afternoon to watch the actions of the unwary ones who chanced to pause in the fatal spot.

Although the showers relieved the temperature, the thermometer went as high as 2 degrees during the day. The pre-injuration for the twenty-four hours end-ing at 6 p. m. was IT-100 inch, but this does not include the rain which fell in the storm last evening. The prediction for to-day is "fair."

POWERS WILL LET TURKEY SETTLE THE TROUBLE IN THE BALKANS

London, Aug. 20.—The admiralty to-day denied the Daily Chronicle's statement that Admiral Domville, commanding the British Mediterranean squadron, now off the coast of Portugal, had received urgent orders immediately to dispatch some of his ships to the vicinity of Salonica. The officials informed the Associated Press that nothing had been done regarding the dispatch of a British force to Turkish waters, and it was not expected that such action would be taken, in view of Great Britain's announced support of the policy of Russla and Austria, unless a radical change in the situation should occur.

The British foreign office has been notified of the orders issued to the Italian squadron, which appear to have been communicated to all the capitals and which the Italian diplomats say does not mean that Italy intends to withdraw in the slightest degree from co-operating with the powers.
